

Laura Killips MBA Senior Consultant—Curricular Strategy

Laura Killips is a Senior Consultant for Curricular Strategy at exāgoMD. She brings over 14 years of education sector experience to the company, specializing in the design of active learning experiences for established and emerging leaders in health care organizations. In doing so she supports exāgoMD's niche as an expert model consulting firm focused on enhancing the effectiveness and career trajectory of physician leaders through active, contextual leadership development.

Representative Accomplishments

Laura's broad experience in designing innovative curricula and educational methodologies spans leadership effectiveness, performance improvement, change management, strategic priority setting and execution, project organization, and capacity building.

Although relatively new to the health care sector, her expertise has been honed in the challenging public and charter school environment both home and abroad where she has enhanced teacher capabilities in limited resource settings.

Examples of her recent work include:

- Partnering with New York University to provide support to the government of Lebanon to design and provide on-the-ground training for an evidenced-based coaching program that promotes children's academic and social-emotional outcomes
- Coaching new and established teachers and leaders at Mastery Charter Schools in Philadelphia to improve student outcomes through iterative cycles of reflection, instruction, practice and implementation
 - As Assistant and Acting Director of Humanities set organizational vision for quality humanities instruction across 16 secondary campuses serving over 10,000 students
- Supporting Relay Graduate School of Education, a national leader in graduate training for educators, in the redesign of advanced level course objectives for aspiring teachers
- Developing the Teacher Residency Program for Belmont Charter Schools in Philadelphia based on research and best practices drawn from models across the country

Education and Training

A graduate of Michigan State University (B.A. 2005), Laura began her career in education as a Teach For America Corps Member in the Rio Grande Valley. She is completed an M.B.A. in Educational Leadership in 2019 at Tampere University of Applied Science, located in Tampere, Finland.
